

T700 Hydromechanical Units

Woodward T700 Hydromechanical Units

Woodward is the leading supplier of integrated turbine engine control and combustion systems that operate in the most challenging environments. Components include main fuel pumps, fuel metering units, fuel-driven actuators, air valves, heat exchangers, filter modules, fuel nozzles, ignition components, and augmenters and spray bars for military engines.

Woodward manufactures the Hydromechanical Unit (fuel control) for GE's T700 engine that powers the UH-60 Black Hawk, SH-60 Sea Hawk and AH-64 Apache helicopters. The commercial engine is the CT7, which powers the CN235 transport. In addition, Woodward repairs and overhauls all its product lines.

About Simtech

Founded in 1988, Simtech supplies military spare parts to allied governments, United States Government and maintenance centers worldwide. In addition to sales, Simtech handles customer support and logistics and meets all ITAR export controls. Woodward's advanced manufacturing technologies and Simtech's superior distribution service provide end-users with OEM parts and repairs with unmatched support.
